

BIODIVERSITY IS LIFE

Here are some simple ways you can do your part in Biodiversity Conservation

Be active members in implementing good environmental practices such as cleaning and greening programs.

Domesticate or cultivate resources with higher demand as long as the species are not endangered, critical, or vulnerable

Obey environmental laws, even as simple as not leaving your trash behind

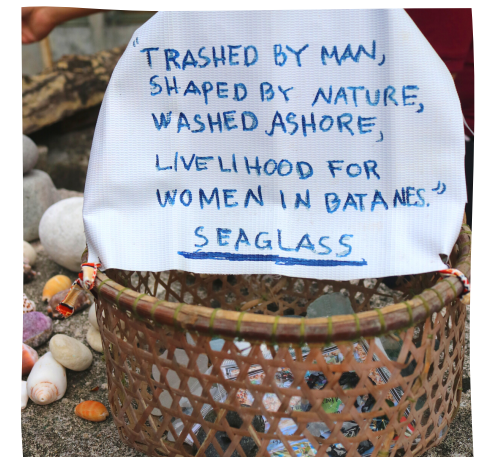

Replicate Indigenous sustainable practices of gathering and resource utilization.

Report prohibited activities and known violators to put a stop to illegal wildlife trade, illegal logging, and pollution of air and water.

Support only eco-friendly businesses as well as the livelihood of local and forest dependent communities.

Reduce the consumption of goods that are produced with high costs to the environment.

When joining ecotourism activities, make sure to pay environmental user fees to help augment the financial cost of biodiversity conservation.

Reduce the amount of pollution and wastes produced by recycling, reusing, and saying no to excessive product packaging

Finally, teach the younger generation to care for the environment as our elders once have.

Produced by: Popularizing Access to Biodiversity Information Data and Conservation Opportunities (PABIDACO)

PABIDACO Research Laboratory, Cordillera Studies Center, UP Baguio, Governor Pack Road Baguio City 2600

website: <http://pabidaco.upb.edu.ph>

Facebook <https://www.facebook.com/pabidaco/>